

I never wanted a hotel in Cornwall, But...

As Tresanton turns 25, it's one of the achievements I am most proud of. The success of Tresanton led to the opening of Endsleigh in 2005, a hotel I bought more with my heart than my head, and more recently to the opening of The Star in Alfriston. With three hotels it made sense to bring them together as The Polizzi Collection.

A great many of our guests are fervent fans of either Endsleigh, Tresanton or The Star; we would like them to try all three hotels! Tresanton has wonderful views across the sea to St Anthony's lighthouse, Endsleigh is set deep in the countryside in one of Humphry Repton's historic gardens, The Star is in an unspoilt medieval village at the foot of the South Downs; they are each so different, yet complementary.

We are continually improving the hotels

To delight families staying with us, we have created a new playroom at Tresanton. Heaven for children of all ages. I am also delighted with the new treatment room. The spacious room will allow us to offer, for the first time, couples massages and a greater variety of really good treatments.

In the Main House, work has been completed on five beautiful new bathrooms. I hope that we have preserved the spirit of the original spaces but made them even more comfortable with separate walk-in showers.

An additional small bedroom has opened at Tresanton, situated above the Dogs' Bar. Perfect for one person, this will bring the total number of bedrooms to 31.

Across the River Tamar

At Hotel Endsleigh, a great deal of work has been done in the old stables to create two wonderful new suites. These will be among the most spacious and ideal for families and those who prefer a little more room. Reservations are now open for Suite 21 and Suite 22.

Meanwhile in Alfriston

The Star has now been open for two years. It is doing well and guests seem to really like it. The Star is situated in the pretty 16th century village of Alfriston, at the foot of the South Downs with some of the best and most varied walking in England. It is very near Glyndebourne and Charleston and not far from London. Perfect for a few days enjoyment. My home is fifteen minutes from The Star so I know and love this area.

Our courtyard is a beautiful place to dine in the summer. We have bought the garden next door to hopefully double the size of the outdoor space. In time we are also hoping to open a hotel shop.

Thank you for your continued support. We look forward to welcoming you and sharing these improvements with you.
